BOOTLEGGERS BELIEVED TIPPED OFF

Veil of Secrecy Maintained by Raiders Does Not Prevent Some from Getting Under Cover Before Drinking Places are Searched

"Stool Pigeon" Beaten Up Before Officers Start on Rounds—Mayor and Safety Director Have Charge of Headquarters

That tips from the inside were received by some places where liquor was sold prior to the raid Thursday night in order that they might get under cover was the charge Friday.

One South Side proprietor of a soft drink establishment is declared to have admitted that "a little bird" warned him Thursday afternoon that raids were to be made.

Another indication that advance notice of the impending raid had gone out was the fact that one of the "stool pigeons" used to get evidence for the prohibition agents, was beaten up by an unidentified assailant before the raids started. He suffered a broken nose and other injuries.

These facts, together with the belief of the prohibition men and the officials that their plans were absolutely secret, caused considerable discussion Friday as to where the leak came from.

While the raid was shaping Thursday evening every precaution was taken to prevent any notification going out. Telephones were guarded and officers worked in squads to prevent any information leaking out in case any should feel so inclined.

WHISKEY GONE WHEN RAIDERS ENTER DRINKING PLACES HERE

The "stool pigeons" reported whiskey to be found at certain places and when the raiders entered nothing was found. This convinced those directing the raid that tips had been effective.

Police officials did not work separately. Even Chief Roush did not lead a squad. The plan was for a state officer to lead a party and in the case of Roush, he went with the leader of the state officers.

The state prohibition agents have been in the city several days. It is believed that the fact was known to a few, altho there is no proof of this. It could not be learned Friday whether the placing of night policemen in plain clothes Wednesday night had anything to do with the matter.

Mayor Burkhardt and Safer Fred Fisher had charge of police headquarters while the raid was in progress. The evidence taken was not turned over to police for safe keeping, as is the rule, but was placed in a vault in the criminal court rooms on the second floor.

No trace had been found of the assailant of the "stool pigeon" who was attacked late Thursday afternoon. He was unable to identify him, altho the attack was made in daylight. The attack took place on S. Main-st.

NEW CRISES ARISE IN BRITISH STRIKE

Engineers, Facing Wage Cut, Threaten Walkout

300,000 WORKERS AFFECTED

Scottish Trades Congress Backs Miners—Conference Today

LONDON.—(By Associated Press).—Official figure on unemployment, made public last night, placed the total at 1,656,900, an increase of 71,200 over last week. It was stated in the coal exchange that several cargoes of American coal were on their way to British ports, that French coal had already arrived and that Belgium was receiving coal for England. It was asserted Germany was offering coal at Swansea at half the price of the best Welsh product, while South Africa coal was going to Mediterranean ports.

ANOTHER CRISIS It was officially stated that 45 coal mines had been closed as a result of the absence of pumpmen and engineers from the pits, and that further cuts in train schedules would be effective on Sunday.

Another crisis has arisen in the engineering industry over proposed wage cuts amounting to 12,500,000 pounds sterling and affecting 300,000 workers. A conference of employers held here yesterday adjourned for a week.

SCOTS BACK MINERS

The Scottish trades union congress, in session at Aberdeen, has passed resolutions supporting the miners and recording the condemnation of the congress of the government's "treacherous and bitter anti-labor attitude." Demands were made that a general labor conference be called for the purpose of considering united action.

British mine owners and leaders of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain will meet Prime Minister Lloyd-George this afternoon to discuss the coal crisis. The meeting will be held at the invitation of Mr. Lloyd-George. The conference of the miners' delegates, which was to have been held today, has been adjourned until tomorrow.

NEW LOVE LOSES IN THIS TRIANGLE; GOES INTO HIDING

Esther Tannell Andrews, the young woman whom Herbert Thornton Andrews brought to his home as his second wife to live under the same roof with his first wife, apparently has lost out. She has gone into hiding and reports from New York, where Andrews and his wives lived, hint at a reconciliation between him and his first wife, Mrs. Maude Augusta Haines Andrews.

TROOPS LED INTO DEATH TRAPS

How Irish Lay Ambushes for the British Revealed

LONDON.—(By Associated Press).—Inside stories of the ambushes laid by the Irish Republican Army to trap and kill squads of British constables in Ireland are disclosed in the reports from Irish brigade commanders which have just been given out at the headquarters of the Volunteers in Dublin. Most of these attacks have been reported by the British but the Irish accounts are now given for the first time.

They give the details of desperate fights in which, sometimes, the little British commands have been decimated and at other times the Irish have been driven off with severe losses, for the Irish Volunteers occasionally run into a counter trap and find themselves exposed to the withering blast of a machine-gun.

METHODS EMPLOYED

These reports show the methods employed to carry on the guerrilla fighting, the hurried calls to assemble the Irish attackers, efforts to surprise the British constables in some isolated spot and tell of the use of mines to block the passage of motor cars so that the attack can be delivered with greater execution.

A typical ambush is described in a report of the commander of the East County Clare brigade. Thirty-five men, five acting as scouts, attacked a police lorry containing a district inspector and nine constables at Glenwood Belvoir, killing all but four who escaped. Twenty of the attackers, it is stated, were armed with rifles and ten with double-barrelled shotguns. They were concealed on one side of the road near a stream.

COUNT ON SURPRISE

"As in a previous ambush," the commander reports, "the main body was divided into three parties. The position which was occupied at 7 a. m. was not very comfortable, but we counted on the element of surprise and the concentrated fire of 15 of the rifles and the ten shotguns. In the first volley to make up for shortcomings and in this we were successful."

They waited, it appears, until four o'clock in the afternoon before the lorry came in sight. "When the car came into the center position," the report continues, "it was raked with the fire of the 24 guns, most of the police were shot off and the car came to a dead stop. Some of the police when they got on the road made an attempt to put a fight but the second volley, which included all the rifles, wiped them out."

DRIVER OF DEATH CART IDENTIFIED

Scranton Prisoner Recognized as Wall-st Bomb Wagon Man

PROOF GIVEN IN NEW YORK

Testified to by Firms in Financial District

NEW YORK.—(By Associated Press).—A photograph of Tito Ligi, now under arrest in Scranton, Pa., has been identified by three persons as that of the man they claim to have been driving the "bomb wagon" into Wall-st on September 16, last, William J. Flynn, chief of the department of justice, said here today. Mr. Flynn arrived from Washington late last night.

IDENTIFICATION POSITIVE

The three who identified the photograph are connected with well known firms in the financial district. Mr. Flynn said, adding that he was not at liberty to make known their names. He said they seemed positive in their identifications.

In their hunt for the bomb plotters, Chief Flynn and his aides had gathered photographs of many known and suspected radicals and these were shown to the three persons before Ligi's arrest. The Ligi photograph which is said to have been obtained thru another alleged radical in Paterson, N. J., was picked by all three as that of the man they saw driving the bomb wagon. Mr. Flynn said.

CONSULTATION HELD

Captain Arthur Carey, head of the homicide bureau of the police department, was reported to have been in consultation with Chief Flynn last night. Captain Carey admitted he had received from the Scranton superintendent of police, photographs, finger prints and Bertillon measurements of Ligi. He refused to discuss latest developments in the bomb disaster investigation.

"The matter is of such importance," he said, "that I shall not say one word about it at this time."

POLICEMAN SLAIN

Shot to Death by Bandits in Cleveland

CLEVELAND.—(By United Press).—Two women and five men were held at police headquarters today, following the murder here shortly before midnight last night by Patrolman Elmer Sprosty, son of Police Captain Sprosty, and nephew of Safety Director Sprosty.

The murder took place at a downtown cafe of Philip Goldberg. Seven bandits entered Goldberg's cafe and shot up the place, apparently for revenge, police say. Sprosty, on duty near the cafe, rushed to the scene. As he returned the door of the cafe, and was drawing his revolver, the bandits emerged, all six firing at the policeman. Three bullets took effect. Sprosty was rushed to Charity Hospital, but died without regaining consciousness, about an hour later.

The bandits escaped in an automobile. Early this morning, police flying squadrons had rounded up the two women and five men. They are being held as suspects and will be questioned later today.

CRASH KILLS THREE

MONTREAL, Que.—Three persons were killed and three others injured when an automobile was struck last night by a southbound Delaware and Hudson railway train at Hughes Crossing near Lacolle.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Isabelle Beaudin of this city and their infant daughter, Leona Blair. The children's parents and a friend, the other occupants of the car, were not seriously injured.

Mayor Burkhardt Suspends Chief of Police Following Sensational Raid on Alleged Bootleggers by Dry Agents

Department Head Refuses to Resign and Probably Will Carry Fight to Civil Service Commission to Retain Job

Mayor Burkhardt appointed Jess B. Hargrove, patrolman, acting chief of police at 2 o'clock this afternoon, effective at once.

At the same time he made public the suspension order to Roush, which was as follows:

"You are hereby suspended for a period of thirty days for disciplinary purpose, account of acts of insubordination to your superiors, effective at once."

Chief of Police O. J. Roush was suspended for 30 days by Mayor Burkhardt at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. A meeting was called by the mayor of Safety Director Fred Fisher and Chief Roush for that time. Roush failed to attend, declaring he had no notice of the session, altho Safer Fisher said he had told him of the meeting Friday morning.

Roush's suspension followed a sensational raid here Thursday night on alleged bootleggers by operatives from the office of State Prohibition Commissioner Park. Many places were raided and a number of local men arrested. Large amounts of various kinds of liquor was taken to police headquarters.

The police department was called upon to assist the dry force, which had been here several days. This was done, altho the dry agents entirely directed the work.

The mayor announced early Friday that he would suspend Roush unless his resignation was in at 1 o'clock. Shortly before that time Roush was asked if he intended to resign. He replied:

"No, I am not going to resign; do you think I am a d— fool? If the people can stand having me off for a few days, it will suit me." Roush is expected to fight the case to the last ditch.

SUSPENSION COMES AS CLIMAX TO LONG FIGHT ON DEPARTMENT

The suspension of the chief came as a climax to the war the mayor has waged on the department for the last three weeks. At the outset he charged the department was inefficient and that it was not suppressing disorderly houses or running down bootleggers.

The mayor was unable to say whether the suspension of the chief would stop the grand jury investigation, preparations for which have been under way for several days. He said he could only say that the investigation would be continued and was not ready to say what turn it might take.

Roush was on the job at headquarters Friday morning in connection with the liquor violation hearings.

All were released under bonds of $1,000 each, after waiving preliminary hearing.

ESCAPE OF MORE I. W. W.'S FEARED

Embarkation Points and U. S. Borders Under Guard

CHICAGO.—(By United Press).—Points of embarkation and United States borders will be guarded by department of justice operatives today for possible fleeing members of the I. W. W., District Attorney Clyde said today.

Clyde instructed department of justice operatives to prevent any possible escape of the radicals who are under sentence of violating the espionage act, following information that "Big Bill" Haywood, I. W. W. leader, had arrived in Russia.

At the same time Clyde ordered federal authorities to check up on the I. W. W.'s who are to begin prison terms of from one to 20 years Monday, and also to get reassurance of Otto Christensen, attorney for the I. W. W., that all will report at Leavenworth Monday but is taking no chances he said.

Christensen is one of those who put up the $15,000 bond for Haywood was the first to report the disappearance of his client to Clyde. William Brown, Lloyd, millionaire radi al, also signed Haywood's bond.

"I do not believe that Haywood intends to stay away from the United States," Lloyd said today. "He perhaps did not know he had to begin his prison term so soon."

According to Clyde's instructions, operatives are to "shadow the convicted I. W. W.'s until they go to jail."

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY CO-EDS ORGANIZE CLUB TO ROPE IN HUSBANDS

COLUMBUS.—Bold co-eds at Ohio State University have organized a club to "rope in" husbands before members leave school this spring.

Members of the new club admit they are not looking forward to careers. They don't want to teach school or to be stenographers, they said.

The organization is known as the "Open Gate" Club. One charter member today explained it thus: "You've heard the expression 'giving a man the gate.' Well, the gates of this organization are always open—inwardly. No man is safe."

Clyde instructed department of justice operatives to prevent any possible escape of the radicals who are under sentence of violating the espionage act, following information that "Big Bill" Haywood, I. W. W. leader, had arrived in Russia.

CARBONE CASE IS NEARING CLOSE

Hard Fight Made for Woman Under Blackhand Charge

ACCUSED IS UNCONCERNED

Two Others May be Tried on Similar Indictments

The jury which on Thursday and Friday has been hearing the trial of Mrs. Rosa Carbone, 136 E. Fourth-st., indicted by the grand jury on the charge of writing black hand letters to Kliment Naum, south side grocer, may take the case late Friday night.

The state planned to rest its case shortly after the noon hour Friday. The defense may not call many witnesses in that event, the jury will probably have the case for deliberation Friday night.

BANKERS TESTIFY
E. T. Mitchell, cashier of the City bank; Theodore G. Harris, cashier of the American bank, and Harri O. Jones, cashier of the Old National bank, were called as expert witnesses for the state Friday morning. They were asked to compare handwriting in the Naum letters with that of Mrs. Carbone, to make possible identification.

Attorney for Mrs. Carbone bitterly contested every inch of the progress of the case.

Mrs. Carbone, 32, a small woman of vivacious appearance, took little or no interest in the trial. She sat almost as much unconcerned as if she were not the principal.

CHILDREN IN COURT
She was surrounded Friday by her family of four little children. A girl of about 11 sat next to her mother and a curly-headed tot of two climbed into his mother's lap and she smoothed his golden hair.

Their father, Rosa Carbone, occupied a seat immediately back of his wife. He was jointly indicted by the grand jury and will be tried on a like charge later.

The Carbone were arrested when they called at the police station in December to offer bail for one of their fellow countrymen, charged with an attack on the grocery of Kliment Naum a few days before search of their house by police later revealed writing paper and ink which is said to correspond with that upon which the Naum letters were written.

GLENMORE CO. SUE
Benjamin F. Thomas has sued the Glenmore company for $21,157.52, claimed to be due, with interest, on an account which was assigned to him by the Lima Construction company. The amount is said to have been for labor and materials on a building for the Glenmore company.

"MAN GOT BIBLE ALL WRONG"

Erred in Restrictions on Women Says English Lady

(By KARL C. REEVES.)
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON—More men did the translating of the Bible and he got it all wrong. In some very important particulars.

Chiefly in the passage dealing with women's duties to her husband, and to her back seat in human affairs generally.

Miss K. Raleigh is putting the Bible's commandments for women right. And putting womankind at right right concerning the imposition upon them which has endured ages centuries, all because a man translator made a slip.

The New Word of the Law is this: "St. Paul did not—"

"Command women to obey their husbands."

"Forbid women to preach."

"Instruct forever and aye, whatever the fashion of the country, they should wear hats in church."

"Say that they should never wear jewelry and fine clothes."

Item number one, the most important mistake, Miss Raleigh nails with vigor.

"Wives were not enjoined by St. Paul to obey," but "to be considerate to their husbands."

The Greek word "to obey" when he was speaking of children and slaves.

When he was speaking of husbands and wives he used a different word, which has been translated to "be subject to." The correct translation of this word is "be considerate to."

"Women were commanded to cover their heads in church merely because it happened to be the custom of the time."

And as for the other errors:

"St. Paul did not forbid women to preach. The correct translation is that he meant women should not chatter in church, but if they wanted to say what they should ask for it in their homes."

"He did not say that women should never wear jewelry and fine clothes. He only bade them leave their jewelry at home and dress plainly when they were preaching or setting out on missionary journeys."

Moreover:

"God gave gifts to men" is, in the proper translation, "gifts to human beings" so that women were included."

"God gave gifts to men" is, in the proper translation, "gifts to human beings" so that women were included."

"God gave gifts to men" is, in the proper translation, "gifts to human beings" so that women were included."

FEMALE ARMY TO DEMOBILIZE

Famous Polish Organization to be Disbanded

WOMEN TO RETURN HOME

Some to Remain in Service as Instructors

WARSAW — (By International News Service)—Poland's Women's Battalion, of which the world heard so much in the last few years, is being demobilized. The majority of its 3,000 members are returning to domestic pursuits after more than two years of military service. A small percentage will remain in Government service as instructors of military education for women in schools which are being set up for them in Warsaw, Cracow and Posen.

Colonel Alexandra Zagorska, the commander-in-chief of the battalion, is supervising the demobilization from the cavalry barracks in Warsaw. She is a physician of Cracow who formed the battalion after losing her only son in the war at Lemberg. Her husband, also a physician, is a professor in Cracow University.

Colonel Zagorska's office is a plain room, the walls of which are decorated with a colored print of Pilsudski and one of Pilsudski. She is a pretty, mild-mannered woman of thirty-five, who wears a khaki uniform of American cloth with a skirt resembling a riding habit and has three decorations on her breast. An orderly stands guard outside her door and altho there are none but women soldiers on duty there is an atmosphere of soldierly discipline about the place.

SUFFERED 100 CASUALTIES
"Our casualties," the colonel said with the matter-of-factness of the experienced soldier, "have been little more than 100. We lost 40 killed at Lemberg and about 50 at Vilna. Now that peace prospects are bright for Poland our task is done and most of my soldiers will go home, those that have them, to be good wives and mothers, as women should."

"All of the 3,000 women soldiers are being demobilized except one battalion which is still doing duty at Vilna."

The colonel estimated that fifty women soldiers had married while in the service. If they married soldiers they continued in the battalion in preference to returning home while their husbands were also in the army.

While she was talking a company of women soldiers, trim, pretty girls not more than twenty, were going thru drill in the barrack grounds. They all carried rifles and sidearms and went thru their manual of arms with the same of veterans. "They are our best," she said with evident pride. "Most of those soldiers were recruited two years ago in Lemberg. They don't want to leave the service."

HIGH DISCIPLINARY CODE
"Our discipline is just as severe as in the men's regiments. In fact, it has been the army's experience that women take a soldier's life more seriously than do the men and are more punctual and have a greater sense of fidelity than the men."

In reference to the Governmental scheme for educating women as officers, Colonel Zagorska said: "The Government has been so impressed with the value of women in war that it has decided to establish these schools for the military training of women in Warsaw, Cracow and Posen. We have already received 50 applications for admission to the schools from the battalion members living in Lemberg, where the legion was formed and more are coming from other parts of Poland. It shows the splendid spirit of the Polish women who, more than the men, are responsible for keeping burning the fire of patriotism in the hearts of the Polish youth thru all our years of oppression under other governments."

"These schools will provide the necessary military training for women as officers in the sanitary corps, the telephone, telephone and educational branches of the army. In other words, an effort will be made to fill all those branches of the service with women so that in the event of war more men can be spared for the fighting line."

"The popular impression seems to be that all of the members of the Women's Battalion were on the actual fighting line in the last two years of Poland's troubles. Only a small percentage of the women were placed in the line. Organized originally for the defense of Lemberg against the attack of Ukrainian army the legion fought fast. Its members took their place in the line at Lemberg and later at Vilna which accounts for the comparatively large number of casualties we had at those two places. But the majority have been occupied with post duty, guarding magazines in Warsaw, Vilna, Lemberg and smaller places back at the front. In other words, the Americans have helped us considerably with such things as clothing and boots and we feel very grateful."

"Under the new training in the schools women will enlist for three years and are liable to be called to the colors at any time within that period should the peace of Poland be endangered. One interesting provision is that women with one or more children under seven can be exempted from military duty."

"The schools will make the best educated of the battalion members now being demobilized, which includes all classes. We have 500 young women who were governesses in the best families of Poland who are already enlisted in the new training scheme. The age limit is thirty-five years."

Colonel Zagorska said that the spirit of the Women's Battalion will not die with demobilization, but will be perpetuated thru the schools that 3,000 members. "Poland," she concludes, "is counting on us to do our duty in peace as well as in war, and just like the women of America or other countries we will not be found wanting when the call comes again."

JOHNSON TALKS ON ADVERTISING

C. C. Manager Tells Ad Club Men
Facts from Experience

"Let the light of your city so shine before men that they will glorify its services to mankind, which alone which makes a city great," said J. Kennard Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce in his address on "Community Advertising" before the Ad Club at dinner at the Norval Hotel Thursday night.

"A city set on a hill cannot be hid," he said. "Publicity is the color on its walls and the polish on its window panes."

Johnson sarcastically ridiculed the haphazard publicity "stuff" of most cities and said that facts are the only things that count. "City advertising," he said, "should not only attract the eye, hold attention and carry conviction, but state real facts. Preliminary steps should be taken and a survey should be made of the factors that go to make up the city and an analysis prepared of the resources of the city, that can be relied upon for future growth. As in commercial advertising, publicity should pave the way for sales."

Johnson explained the use of slogans, conventions, movies and pamphlets in city advertising and took for a model Gloversville, N. Y., his former scene of activity.

A two reel movie in which Gloversville propaganda was cleverly concealed in a romantic war time scene was shown. Willard Gramin of the Gramin-Bernstein Co., who donated his movie machine and services, also showed an old time wild west movie to impress the ad men with the progress that has been made in moving pictures.

Arthur Wohlgenuth, advertising manager of the Feldman Dry Goods store, was elected secretary of the club to succeed Jack Evans of the Gramin-Bernstein Co., who resigned.

RAIN DIDN'T STOP ROAD WORKERS

Enthusiasts Start Harding Highway Despite Mud

MOVIE MAN FILMS, SCENES

Employment Fund of $100 is Almost Untouched

Despite rainfall, that put to rout all thought of labor in the hearts of many, a hundred or more good roads boosters reported on the dot at Memorial Hall Friday morning, and within an hour were out "doing their bit" to put the county roads in good order. Allen's Good Roads Day, although hindered, was not stopped by the rain.

Not to be outdone, Peggy Leedy, movie star and Jake Baker, cameraman, braved the mud and rain to get at least a few shots at the hearty road boosters.

Water, water, everywhere, but not a drop to drink, waited a weary worker but not for long for Miss Leedy, soon appeared on the scene with a pull and not a man went thirsty.

BAKER FILMS SCENES
Baker took pictures of the trucks, loading stone at the stone quarry of workers unloading them of the volunteers at work on the roads and of the bucket lunch squad.

A dozen trucks donated by local industrial plants kept the workers supplied with materials. The workers were transported in volunteer motor cars.

County Commissioners, Guy and Craig were busy all day directing the work.

Each township had its own delegation at work.

Although the rain was a hindrance, good work was done. Commissioners said they believe there would have been a much larger turnout had the weather been better. The event had been postponed once on account of bad weather, but the commissioners could not be bluffed the second time.

Pictures taken by Baker will be shown all over the country in the movie news service and will be advertised as the start of the Harding Highway Pictures of Harding's birthplace and famous front porch.

at Marion will be added to the picture. Although the commissioners had over $100 donated to hire labor, only a half dozen were secured. Others who said they had been out of work for weeks, would not work in the rain. The money will be spent by the commissioners to hire men at later dates. Each man employed will be given a receipt to be handed to the man who donated the money.

RAIN DIDN'T STOP 'EM
The weather did not stop the meeting of the 100 good roads representatives from District No. 4 of the Ohio Good Roads Federation at the Chamber of Commerce at 2 o'clock. Nearly 100 delegates from Allen, Auglaize, Hardin, Logan, Mercer, Shelby and Van Wert counties were present. Highway legislation pending in the general assembly and other good roads problems were discussed. State Director G. F. Rudstall was among those present.

LONDON—Professor Thomas G. Masaryk resigned as president of Czechoslovakia, because of ill health, according to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

CARD OF THANKS
I desire to thank my relatives, neighbors and friends for the kindness and tender sympathy shown me in my recent sad bereavement in the death of my husband, Mrs. John R. Marshall, also all who contributed machines and the beautiful floral offerings.
I especially wish to thank the singers and Rev. LaPort of Columbus Grove for their consoling messages.

LABOR TROUBLES HALT RELIEF

American Aid to Polish Sufferers is Delayed

(By International News Service)
WARSAW — Six steamships containing 30,000 tons of American food supplies in addition to quantities of medical and relief supplies are arriving in Danzig. These are the first large shipments in bulk of American supplies to reach Poland since her period of greatest need began. Five additional steamers are expected in Danzig shortly.
At American Red Cross headquarters the complaint has been made that great delay was being experienced in getting the cargoes from Danzig to Warsaw. The Red Cross brought 26 tons of medicinal supplies which were sorely needed in the work here, but which, so far, are not being received. Delays in unloading are almost inevitable, on account of labor troubles in Danzig. After this the overburdened condition of the traffic between Danzig and Warsaw makes shipment a slow process. Shortage of rolling stock is now making the provisioning of Warsaw a matter of particularly great difficulty.

Polish newspapers here have given much space to the news of the arrival of these shipments, describing each cargo as it arrives in detail. The steamers that have been reported so far are the West Zeda, Salsan, Danzig, Cornelia, Westport and the Ratum. The cargoes consist principally of grain and flour, together with 2,000 tons of condensed milk and 400 tons of cocoa. The entire cargoes are consigned to various American relief organizations.
FOREIGN AID INDISPENSABLE
The statement of the Polish Ministry of Appropriation covering its activities for the year 1920, made public here today, furnishes a lucid explanation of the reason why foreign aid in solving the problem of food supply for Poland is absolutely indispensable. The scant programme of rationing which the Ministry originally framed for the year 1920-21 called for a minimum crop of cereals to be delivered by the farmers of Poland to the Ministry for distribution, expressed as 27,000 railway carloads. Last fall, after the Bolshevik invasion, when it was seen that the crop would not reach this figure the Ministry readjusted its programme of rationing, cutting down the quantity of bread and debasing it still further in quality, as well as making similar changes regarding other necessities.

The Ministry in its detailed statement, now shows that the crop actually gathered was less than half the amount originally estimated. It was, in fact, only 13,185 carloads. M. Slawinski, the Minister of Appropriation, declares that had it not been necessary to abandon his policy of rationing altogether, the quantity of food possible to distribute to an individual would not have been sufficient to maintain life.

POISON GAS LETS GO; PEOPLE FLEE

Chemical Plant Leak Brings Panic to Jersey Town

BROOK, N. J. (By United Press.)—Poison gas fumes from a leaking tank at the Hemingway Chemical Company forced hundreds of people living in Middlebrook to flee for their lives early today. The deadly fumes covered a considerable area. One policeman, Michael Granzio, was overcome. The gas began leaking from the Hemingway tank last night. The fumes steadily became more dense. About midnight passengers of a trolley car passing thru the gased area were affected. They did not know what the trouble was at first. Nearby residents were aroused from their beds, dressed hurriedly and took to flight. The alarm at Bound Brook was sounded to arouse sleepers. Great excitement prevailed during the crisis. Traffic was stopped at 4 a. m. by employees of the Calco Chemical Company, adjoining the Hemingway plant. Donning masks, they entered the area and closed the opening thru which the vapors were pouring. Policeman Granzio, the only man overcome, was taken to his home and soon recovered. He will suffer no permanent ill effects. The fumes dispersed shortly after the leak was closed and the people were able to return to their homes. The Hemingway plant manufactures poison gas for the United States army during the war. It is idle at present.

STAY OF EXECUTION GRANTED BY GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS.—Governor Davis today granted a thirty day stay of ex-

AMBULANCE REMOVALS. CITY UNDERTAKING COMPANY. Mrs. R. R. McGarry, M.

WOMEN NOW EQUAL MEN IN BUSINESS

Mrs. Thomas Scott.

Wanting to learn experiences from people at other points. In Indianapolis, Ind., Pöppen enjoys a wide sale and much popularity. Mrs. Thomas Scott, who lives at 646 S. Delaware street, in that city, reflects the opinion of her townswomen in her story which is as follows:

"When I started to take Pöppen I had a severe case of nervous dyspepsia," says Mrs. Scott. "My stomach was often so bloated that often it felt twice its natural size. "My system was undermined. My liver was sluggish and I had terrible pains in my back. Another thing that annoyed me was the fact that I could not sleep soundly. When I got up in the morning I felt as tired as when I went to bed.

"Pöppen has given me wonderful relief. The pains in my back are so much better that I scarcely notice them. I can eat anything and do not suffer with bloating afterwards. Yes, I'm hungry all the time, and every meal I eat seems to taste better than the one before it. "Before I took Pöppen I never knew when it was meal time until someone told me. I go to bed and sleep like a tired school girl. That is something I have not been able to do for two years before I took Pöppen.

"I fear that my words do not do Pöppen justice, for the medicine is even greater than I have described. Pöppen is sold by all first-class drug stores everywhere. It is being specially introduced at Charles M. Hunter's Drug stores in Lima, Ohio.—Adv.

RIVER THREATENS BIG BLOCKS

Erosion of Bank is Menace, Wall Ordered at Wapak

WAPAKONETA — Council will put thru legislation to build a retaining wall along south bank of Auglaize river to stop erosion of bank. Improvement will cost $34,000. It has been held up because of high prices of material. Water of river has been eating away at bank for years and undermining of foundations of business houses is threatened.

Wave of petty thievery at high school has caused officials to start a clean-up. Thieves get bicycles, school supplies, jewelry and articles, left by children in cloakrooms.

City Solicitor Timmermeister is requesting the Greenville Traffic Post Company to reconsider a contract entered into with city last January for furnishing four traffic posts. Due to wave of opposition by people who claim streets are too narrow some way must be found to abrogate contract.

Chautauqua dates for this city were announced as July 19-25.

First cases of dog license violations came up in Justice R. G. Herrmann's court. They are against M. J. Brown and Ed Kinastle, Pushelap. Both were taken up by Deputy Elmer Long, special officer for dog law enforcement.

STARTLING MODELS IN FRENCH DRESSES

PARIS.—Startling are the new Spring models of dresses and costumes for women seen in Paris dressmaking establishments. Envy of the success achieved by stage costumers in showing dresses made up of two distinct colors leading dressmakers are bringing out dresses one-half of which will be in one color, for example red, and the other half of another color, green. Some dresses will be divided up in quarters and each quarter will be of a different color. Some striking combinations of colors have been shown and costumers anticipate a big success.

There are six footmen in attendance at the main entrance to Buckingham Palace through out the day traffic posts. Until seven o'clock when the number is reduced to four.

FRENCHMAN IS VICTIM OF "SPANISH" SWINDLE

PARIS.—The old "Spanish" swindle, worked for many years in the United States, has just claimed a victim in Paris.

A wealthy Paris manufacturer received a letter from the "Spanish prisoner" telling the same old story. The "prisoner" had buried a treasure worth $100,000 and if the manufacturer would only come to Spain and see a friend of the fall bird the money would be delivered to him on the payment of a comparatively small sum.

The Parisian went to Madrid and met the friend of the "prisoner." The friend obtained $5,000 from him, giving the bogus check for $15,000 as security. It was not until he had returned to Paris that the manufacturer discovered he had been duped.

CARD OF THANKS

ONE-QUART LIMIT HITS SMUGGLER
Canadian Law Will Check Booze
Flow into U. S.
BECOMES EFFECTIVE MAY 1
All Sorts of Devices Provided for Liquor Traffic

BURLINGTON, Vt.—(By Associated Press.)—Smuggling of whiskey across the Canadian border into Vermont will be virtually restricted after May 1, to the small supply that may trickle in thru satchels, bootlegs, and hip-pockets, in the opinion of prohibition agents here.

On that date a Dominion law limiting each purchase of whiskey to a single quart becomes effective. While beers and wines flow freely officers do not anticipate any flood on this side because profits in these tight liquors are too small to tempt the rum-runners.

MOTOR CARS CHECKED.
Recent seizures have indicated a concerted effort to rush large stocks of whiskey into the state before the Canadian one-quart limit is enforced. Automobile traffic, formerly the principal underground source, is less used nowadays, but now and then a loaded car is caught slipping with muffled motor along the by paths of the border. Scores of machines have been abandoned recently, by parties that were checked by vigilant guards.

SHIP BY FREIGHT.
Most of the shipments, however, have been made by freight car in recent months. False sides had been built into lumber cars and whiskey in large quantities concealed in the skilfully constructed bins. Spirits have come across the line also hidden in hay, grain, potatoes and shipments of a similar nature. Some have fallen into the revenue officers' hands before leaving the railway tracks.

Capture of liquor cached in freight cars, however, is more or less a matter of luck, the enforcement agents admit, and this is the chief reason for the use of this means of smuggling by the men who thereby avoid risk of their persons or automobiles.

ALL THE MONEY YOU HAVE CANNOT BUY TWO WORDS IN THESE COLUMNS OPEN LETTERS

To Mayor Burkhardt
To Safety Director Fisher
To Police Chief Roush

DEAR BOYS: Your triangular mixup of a municipal pot pourri is affording my people entertainment of an unusual character at least. If out of all the turmoil there comes a betterment of anything, anywhere along the line of things involved, 'twill likely be worth the time and effort and breathless suspense.

The tendency of the times is continually toward betterment. When departments cannot work in harmony for progress, perhaps it is better that they do a little see-sawing. Maybe you'll all get somewhere after the dust of battle subsides.

LIMA BEANE.

To Argonne Hotel Owners

MY FRIENDS: I am mighty glad to be afforded the opportunity of commending and congratulating you for your achievement in providing such a magnificent edifice for my city, establishing as it does a new sky line in Lima.

The hotel at High and Elizabeth-sts, now so near completion and ready for occupancy is a monument to your enterprise and will do its part in a large measure to spread the fame of my city. It has often been said that a city is known by its hotels. If that be true, Lima occupies an enviable position in the eyes of the traveling fraternity. This latest addition to the list of my desirable hostilities is something to be proud of, more so because it is strictly a Lima enterprise and every dollar in it is Lima capital.

Architecturally beautiful, of substantial construction, arrangement of interior up to the minute with all modern conveniences and devices, there is reason aplenty for the assertion that my city is to be envied in the matter of its new hotel.

LIMA BEANE.

To Clayton Paine

DEAR CLAYT: If your song, "That Wonderful Hog Creek Perfume," to be sprung on an unsuspecting and otherwise peaceable assembly of the Chamber of Commerce Forum at the Elks Club tonight will only succeed in paving the way positively and definitely toward a finally successful plan for taking the stink out of the odoriferous stream, you have my permission to sing it under my window at midnight, no matter how bad it is.

You have probably gathered from my remarks above that I am either fearless or foolish. Correct diagnosis depends upon the results of the first offering of your song.

LIMA BEANE.

To City Auditor Rupert

DEAR DAVE: I was glad to read your statement a few days ago that Lima's deficiency in operating expenses isn't really serious.

I had been impressed with the thought that my city was facing a critical condition, but since you have afforded facts and figures which evidence other cities being really worse off, I'm—well, I'm breathing easier while feeling really sorry for the folks elsewhere.

LIMA BEANE.

To J. Kennard Johnson

To Elmer McClain

DEAR BOYS: Verbal bombs don't take lives as deadly toll, but they're quite as interesting sometimes in general results. The little letter writing and telephone duels you have been staging as a result of the forum being scooped on sewer system information was quite amusing to me while action was on and I want to express my gratification that no lives were lost.

To me, as an onlooker or an innocent bystander, it would appear that better results might be obtained for the good of the general public if there was a better understanding and more cooperation between your departments. The city administration and the Chamber of Commerce have much in common. Bury the hatchet, boys and start over.

LIMA BEANE.

To the Legislature

FRIENDS: Somebody is always taking the joy out of life and in this instance the child of accusation has been laid at your door. Just as I and a lot of my friends were well along in the formation of plans whereby we could make it appear that we were mighty sick children and get under the wire on that national order of real beer for the ill, you have, with malice aforethought, figuratively speaking, spilled the beans.

Your vote, making it impossible for the application of the beer ban removal in Ohio, has caused no small amount of grief and it's going to hurt the business of the doctors, for there'll be no incentive for anyone to feign illness now.

There is one small ray of hope and that is in the Governor's office, but if Governor Davis persists in a "dry" crusade along the lines that have moved him since he has been in office, there is little doubt but that he will sign the doom bill you have enacted and make it a law.

LIMA BEANE.

To Congressman Cable

MY DEAR JOHN: I note from a perusal of a letter your private secretary has addressed to me that you are "ferminist" the proposed Smoot sales tax law, because it would affect every man, woman and child in the United States. This you have found, you say, after several weeks devoted to study and investigation of the underlying principles of the act.

I'm willing to take your word for it, John, that the Smoot act is wrong and designed by a coterie of the very rich to escape the direct burden of the sales tax; in fact, I feel that you are altogether right about it. But, John, if you'll show me how a law can be constructed that will reduce the burden on the poor, my hat will be off to you. If you place the tax on the rich, the poor will pay it in the form of increased prices, so what's the difference?

LIMA BEANE.

To B. F. Welcy

DEAR BEN: I just received a letter from your successor in congress and have answered it. I'm now taking up yours of the 19th and note what you say concerning the impeachment of Judge Landis.

The press reports indicate that the rum-pus you started, with the Chicago Federal office holder and base ball arbiter as the butt of the thing, is like a snow ball pushed along vigorously when the snow is soft—it's gaining in bulk and weight if not in speed.

I find, Ben, that a lot of folks agree with you that friend Landis is in rather a peculiar position when he accepts a salary of $7,500 as a Federal Judge and another salary of nearly six times that amount as the representative of the baseball organization, which is looked upon as a trust, even tho it may not be guilty of the charge.

LIMA BEANE.

To Base Ball Fans

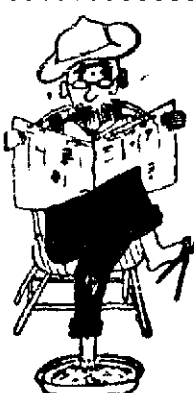

COMRADES: There is for me considerable gratification in realizing that a lot of you fellows feel the same as I do about a base ball team for Lima the coming season. A good city without a base ball team is something like a town without a band or a ship without a rudder.

Most of us find keen enjoyment in viewing the score board and perusing the Pink for results of the big league games, but there's more unalloyed pleasure to the square inch in watching the home team beat out a victory at Murphy-st park and hear the yells of exultation of the fans, than in watching the score board downtown for a week.

Let's put the baseball proposition over big. And make it snappy. I'm with you.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a lucky day.
The stars are favorable for those who seek to attain their ambitions thru gaining the good will of person in power.

Men who seek positions or promotion should succeed under this rule of the stars, but women will not be so successful.

There is an indication of increased interest in psychic phenomena, and of marked growth in the development of spiritual consciousness.

This is not a lucky day for love-making or for weddings. Divorce will again demand much attention, and there is an indication that marriage laws, rather than divorce laws, will be changed.

Persons whose birthday this is should be unusually successful during the coming year if they will devote their attention to work rather than to pleasure. (Children born today should be gifted but inclined toward indolence and selfishness. They will succeed not because of their interest in business, but because of the efforts of others.)

HAD FOOD ALL AROUND HIM BUT COULDN'T EAT

David Becholdt, Steward of Locomotive Club—Was in Strange Plight

To be in the midst of plenty—literally surrounded by food; to buy it, see it prepared and served, and yet not be able to eat a bite—that was the strange plight of David Becholdt, well-known Steward of the Locomotive Club, 124 E. North St. Lima. He said recently:

"I want to tell everyone about what Syroia did for me. You see, I took up my work as Steward here because I couldn't work at the shops, due to ill health. As far as I was concerned, it was like going from had to worse, for I was right in the midst of food all the time and yet hadn't the desire to eat a bite.

"My digestion went back on me, I guess, because when I forced myself to eat my food soured and caused belching of gas and fiery liquid

HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

JOHNNY'S NON-SOLID SKIN.
A mother writes me an indignant protest because it seems I had accused her seventeen-year-old daughter "who thinks Dr. Brady's hints are absolutely final" that it is immaterial whether one wears high shoes, low shoes or goes barefoot in cold weather, or wears rubbers or goes in wet weather, so far as personal hygiene is concerned. Mother explores this strange advice because she had just begun to get a little sense in daughter's head about clothing and dress, when along comes this unheeded recommendation from a doctor purporting to understand the principles of hygiene. I must certainly endeavor to make amends.

About this time of year the melancholy days arrive for little Johnny, if he is a live kid. At least every third day is rather warm, in fact too warm if he is cased in full January armor. Gosh, you sweat more than you would right in the summer time, honest. So what's a father gonna do? Sneak 'em off and sell 'em on ten gals, and run the risk of pneumonia or rheumatism or something?

If I had a boy—ah, of all mad thoughts of women and men, the saddest is what a child might have been—a boy anywhere from three to thirty years old, and he felt that springtime hankering for freedom the gratification of which has been denied millions of boys by parents too well versed in drugstore alchemy. I'd say to that boy: "Sure, Bill, go to it!" In fact I wouldn't have a boy who didn't know enough to come in out of the cold, and I wouldn't have any old she-folks butting in with advice about the protection of my boy from the cold, either. Now I ask any boy that reads this, ain't it a shame? Ain't it a shame that boys are so unequally distributed in this world, while girls—

That mother who protested so indignantly in the letter referred to, centered her assault on my approval of oxforbs or brogans and I forget whether it was silk or woolen socks or what all. Why, bless you, I have watched several youngsters thruout the winter wearing no knee covering at all. I have seen those youngsters ploving thru the drifting snow on days that have just about frozen the mercury in the tube, yet they were not only warm and happy but very healthy young specimens particularly as regards their natural immunity to respiratory infections, as I took pains to learn. And I have seen many a coddled old fogey of either sex and every age gase in shocked pity after those stockinged youngsters and wonder, probably whether the children's parents were quite insane. No, the parents were pretty sensible people.

Personally, I put on my regulation woolen outfit today if it appears cold and I intend to be out in the open, and change to the lightest summer stuff tomorrow morning if the weather suddenly moderates. I change at midday if I am so inclined. I don't know why Johnny should be denied the same wholesome and healthful privilege.

"DREAM STREET" LATEST GRIFFITH PRODUCTION

Due to be Shown in Lima Soon
—Resume of Local Offerings of the Present

Monte Blue Makes "The Kentuckians" a Wonderfully Realistic Picture

By ESTHER WAGNER.
D. W. GRIFFITH'S latest effort is now showing in New York. It is called "Dream Street" and the scenes are set in the Limehouse district of London. The movie is made from two stories by Thomas Burke, whose tales also formed the basis for Griffith's "Broken Blossoms."
The three principal characters are youthful. There's Carol Dempster, who is just 18; Ralph Graves, of Cleveland, a young man of 21 and Charlie Mack, who is only 19.
Carol is cast as Gypsy Fair, a dancer in the sordid surroundings of Limehouse. Spike, her lover, is the youthful pugilistic leader of the district. His brother, Billy, a weakling, also loves her.
Burke's stories are most all tragic, but Mr. Griffith has contrived an elaborately cheerful ending for "Dream Street," unlike his "Broken Blossoms."
The production will reach our city sometime in several months.

"The Kentuckians"

It wasn't so long ago that one just "saw" Monte Blue in pictures. He wasn't even mentioned in the cast, but we remembered his work and fans began to ask, "Who's the tall dark fellow with the pretty eyes?" Then he was seen at the bottom of the cast for a while. And now look who's here! Monte Blue, star! And he deserves it. Real ability, that boy has.
In this picture he is shown as the husky mountaineer and he loves a governor's daughter. He is a leader among his people and realizes the harm and disaster their constant feuds bring to the state.
A bill is introduced by his rival—in whose veins runs blood as blue as the governor's own—to disrupt the mountain counties. Stallard objects, claiming he can control his own people. He is almost called upon to prove it by assuming their responsibility for the hanging of his own brother. They make him sheriff—but—
While the best work in the picture is done by Mr. Blue as the earnest mountaineer, he has excellent support in Mr. Lytell, Miss Diana Allen and a cast composed of entirely capable people. Technically, the pro-

"Drag Harlan"

If you're a William Farnum fan (and I know there are many) you will look upon his present vehicle, "Drag Harlan," as a nice little photoplay for your beloved hero. Personally, I think that he persists in taking these brawny, western-Mix-Hart-Carey-G. M. Anderson parts, he should reduce a bit. He's becoming too cushy to be convincing in roles of that kind. Also, he is beginning to overdo the eyes work a little. Those narrowed orbs and that plump smile are not deadly in the least and it's a safe bet that the hard-boiled man who in his present vehicle cringe before his hypnotic stare, would in real life, push him in the face.

The story of "Drag Harlan" is just one of those pictures in which a nobleman of the plains protects a maiden in distress from the rest of the west, performing like lesson five in somebody or other's lessons in detecting. To act natural for a moment would, one takes it, entirely break up the game. Jack Sanders is nice as the maiden in distress. Cowboys, murderers, etc., war floppy hats and loud skirts and expressions calculated to fit the parts. Mebbe they do. And the scenery is grand. But then, nature is always on the job, even if no one else is.
The Sigma presents "Drag Harlan" as its feature picture today.

"Down Home"

A PICTURE of rural New England life is "Down Home," with all the old landmarks one usually sees in a rural drama—the blacksmith's shop, the old fashioned fire wagon, the village store, where amid the bolts of unbleached muslin and the molasses kegs, the village gossips congregate to discuss the latest scandal, that St. Perkins got a new rat-trap and little Mary Ann Smith caught the measles.
In this same little kind of a village store was also daily taken up the question of why Nancy Pelot went to Redburn every day, to play the piano at a wayside inn, and whether or not in so doing she was ruining her reputation. Most of the gossip "flowed" a how she was a wicked woman, but young Chet Todd, her strong and upright young lover, believed in her to the last, scorned their idle chatter, vested the villains who were trying to swindle Nancy's inebriate father out of his farm, destroyed the false papers, got himself a nice job and city clothes and stepped right in and won her. That's the kind of a young man Chet was!
Leatrice Joy as the girl in the case is sweetly pretty and enacts her role splendidly. Others in the cast were well chosen and do their bit without a flaw. There's quite a bit of humor, too, in the drama, and near the close a supposedly heart-rending scene where all the town sinners got religion and shed tears of sorrow and repentance when their misdeeds miraculously tell them of their sins and asks them to repent. In those days, tho, it might have been that easy to reform a whole town.

"Down Home" is an interesting picture, in that it is a slight variation from the improbable and highly dramatic features with which we are sometimes deluged. It's like "East Lynne" and "Way Down East," homey, and refreshing. Appearing at the Lyric.

Faurot—"Passing Show"

OF a magnitude surpassing all other revues from the workshop of the New York Winter Garden, the gigantic, gorgeous, glittering "Passing Show" comes to the Faurot Saturday afternoon and night with a big cast of headliners, such as Roy Cummings, Will Philbrick, Klein Brothers, Edward Basse, Edward Cutler, Helen Carrington, Alexander Dugan, Dolores Sauer, Seymour, Clara Lind, Robbie Boles, Victor Bozart, Jack and Frank Hall not forgetting 75 fascinating beauties who will be presented in a manner unequalled in the history of the stage. There is so much of everything and everybody in the "Passing Show" that it reminds one of a big circus.

The fifteen scenes, crowded into two acts, and about three hours time, are a veritable assault on the eyes; there is scarcely breathing space between them; the stage is always full of girls during the course of the performance and there is enough variety of costumes to make up for occasional scantiness; the songs fairly trip over the comedy; the principals jostle each other for place before the footlights, so abundant is everything and everybody.
"The Passing Show" is a gorgeous feast for the eye, a beautiful production, and is acknowledged by all the critics in America to be the greatest entertainment in the world. Seats are now selling for both performances.

Miss Leedy at Sigma

MISS Peggy Leedy, Famous Players star, who was scheduled to appear in a Fox picture, will appear at the Sigma theatre this evening at two performances, 7:30 and 9 o'clock. Miss Leedy comes here direct from New York City, where she is appearing in "The Bait," soon to be released.
Miss Leedy is an Ohio girl, having hailed from Zanesville. Her motion picture career began four years ago when a producer saw her, took shots of the young lady and later offered her a contract. # CITY HOSPITAL BENEFIT DANCE

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

BENEFIT entertainments are still occupying the thought and attention of many of the women of the city. Almost every week some affair of a benefit nature has been staged and each has been delightful socially as well as a success financially.

What promises to be a most attractive and enjoyable dance will be the one given at the Elks' Home Monday by the Woman's Board of Managers of the City Hospital. Entertainments of this kind for the benefit of the hospital have come to be an annual affair, each succeeding event outdoing the previous one.

This board is composed of almost half a hundred conscientious women, all doing their utmost to assist in the improvement of the hospital and providing it with all necessities. Tickets are being sold rapidly by members of the board and all are asked to do their share in contributing to this splendid cause.

Mrs. E. M. Gordon opened her home to the members of the Excelsior club Thursday to a delightful meeting. Members responded to roll call with current events and Mrs. W. R. Walters gave an interesting talk on "The League of Women Voters" as well as a splendid discussion of the convention of the League of Women Voters held in Cleveland recently. Mrs. Gordon favored with several vocal solos, in a unique contest Mrs. J. C. Timmough was successful. The hostess served a delicious two course luncheon and each guest was presented with a dainty corsage of sweet peas.

Guests other than members included Mrs. W. R. Walters, Mrs. Earl Metzger and Mrs. Lyle Parmenter.

Club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. C. E. Umbaugh, hostess.

Mrs. William Scheide was hostess to the members of the Hawthorne club at her home on S. Baxter-st. Thursday afternoon. Ten members responded to roll call which preceded a rather lengthy business session. Mrs. Frank Reid had an interesting paper on "The Origin of the Salute." A social hour followed and Mrs. A. K. Fetter was successful in a cleverly arranged contest. The hostess was assisted in serving a tasty lunch by Mrs. Charles Kennedy.

Club will meet in a fortnight with Mrs. C. Snyder, W. Elm-st.

Members of the Ladies' Social Circle of the U. C. T. are requested to bring pencil and paper at their meeting in the hall Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Holstine, W. Elm-st., were called to Detroit Wednesday by the death of a relative.

Members of the S. C. D. club were entertained at a handsomely appointed 1 o'clock luncheon at the Elks' home Thursday with Mrs. J. J. Malloy as hostess. Guests other than members included Mrs. Lawrence Connell, Mrs. Mathew McNamara, Mrs. George Boyle, Mrs. M. H. Lynch, Mrs. George Duffoy, Mrs. Samuel Baumgardner and Mrs. Vincent Connolly. The afternoon was devoted to euchre. Mrs. W. A. Wagner, Mrs. Andrew Decurtin, Mrs. George Boyle and Mrs. Vincent Connolly holding high scores.

Club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. A. McPherson.

Miss Gertrude Glenn left Friday for Detroit, Mich., to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Glenn, formerly of this city. She will be accompanied by her sister Mrs. Homer Taylor who will remain for an extended visit.

Fun At the Sigma Sunday

THE SINGER MIDGETS
The big comedy success "Skirts" with the famous Singer Troupe of Midgets, with funny Clyde Cook, and three thousand beautiful girls, Lima's favorite vocalist, J. Allen Grubb, will be added to the program as a special feature.

What is without question one of the funniest comedies ever presented on the screen will be the offering at the Sigma Theatre Sunday, when the well known and funniest comedian of the screen Clyde Cook, supported by the Singer Troupe of Midgets, and with three thousand beautiful girls, will appear in the screamingly funny comedy, "Skirts," a scream of laughter from start to finish.

Other added features include Lima's favorite singer J. Allen Grubb, who will offer some pleasing singing numbers. A story of boy's life in the open "Bill and Bob." Latest News reel, the Sigma Orchestra in a very fine musical program, and Mr. W. H. Pond at the Piano Organ, completes one of the most entertaining and pleasing programs of the season that is, if you enjoy a good laugh, for "Skirts" will provide the cleanest and most laughable comedy of the season.

Extra tonight, Miss Peggy Leedy, the famous player movie star, will appear in person at the Sigma performance tonight.

MISS CHRISTEN'S DAILY PAGE OF CHAT AND SOCIETY EVENTS

In celebration of the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Helen, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Newman entertained at an attractive dinner party at their home on W. North-st. Wednesday. Place cards bore the initials H. N. and C. S., revealing the engagement of Miss Helen to Clyde Sheik. The marriage will be an event of the summer. A color scheme of pink and white was retained in all the appointments and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newman and son Donald, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mohr, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pulford, Misses Hazel Meyer, Marie Hildebrand, Ruth Hardesty, Louise Sillgenbauer, Louella Simone, Gail Drennen, Treva Fraunfelder, Mrs. Lillie Boesel, Mrs. M. H. Heald and Messrs. Neil Poling, Frank Sturm, Clyde Sheik the host and hostess and their daughter, Miss Helen.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Miss Minnie G. Mel and Merritt A. Cramer were united in marriage at the home of the bride, Maple Lane-st., the Rev. Mills officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Cramer will reside with the bride's parents for the present.

Final rehearsal of "Katcha Koo," American-oriental musical comedy, to be presented at the Elks' home Friday and Saturday evenings under the auspices of St. Martha's Guild of Christ Episcopal church was held at the Elks' home Thursday evening. Miss Galloway, who is directing the rehearsals, has brought the production together in splendid shape in a surprisingly short time. When the curtain rises Friday evening for the first performance the audience will be transported to India, the land of mystery. The Oriental costumes, graceful dancing and the lighting effects create a spectacular scene never before equalled on a Lima stage. It will undoubtedly be an evening's entertainment which everyone will want to see.

Everything is in readiness and tickets have been rapidly sold. There are still some good seats left for both performances but all are advised to act quickly.

Members of the Hereaux Temple club were delightfully entertained at 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. John James, W. North-st. Thursday. In the afternoon a program was presented. Members responded to roll call with favorite recipes. A paper on Galli Curci was presented by Mrs. John Sonnenfeld while Mrs. Carl Quist related an interesting story. Officers were chosen with the following result: Mrs. Carl Kommink, president; Mrs. O. J. Neuman, vice-president; Mrs. J. Edgar Smith, secretary and Mrs. Harry Baldwin, treasurer. The only guests were Mrs. George Quail, Mrs. E. B. Smith and daughter, Helen. Club will meet in a fortnight with Mrs. J. Edgar Smith, Lincoln-ave.

Miss Rita May Deafenduff and John Z. Driver were united in marriage Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. J. Allen Canby, pastor of the Central Church of Christ. The couple were attended by Miss Gladys Gross and Raymond Sinderman and the simple ring ceremony was used.

Mr. Driver and his bride will make their home at 827 N. Union-st.

Mrs. Samuel Weinfeld, S. Metcalf-st. is in Pittsburg, the guest of relatives and friends.

Friends of Mrs. B. Rosenbaum, W. North-st. are deeply grieved over her illness.

DISCOURAGERS OF MATRIMONY BUSY

(By SUSIE SMART)

Dear Miss Smart: I am deeply in love with a young man. He is kind and generous and seems to love me very much. He has asked me to marry him and I am certain that I would be very happy with him. However, a number of married people have discouraged me by saying that they would never marry if they had it to do over and that they wished they had never married, or something like that. What would you advise me to do?

UNDECIDED
DON'T be foolish and listen to their so-called "warning." If you love this young man and he wishes to make you his wife, marry him by all means. It is very likely that these same people "who would never marry had they to do it over" and who "wished they had never married" would do the same thing over again. Most probably they do not intend that you take their remarks seriously. They are doubtless laughing because you have taken their remarks to heart. On the other hand, you must remember that there are pessimists wherever one goes, in every little corner of the earth. Also, one finds persons who are "professional discouragers" and seem to delight and find actual enjoyment in predicting disaster. You know your own heart and mind. Let your conscience be your guide.

You have only to look around you to find hundreds of happy marriages. If all these people to whom you refer have not found happiness and contentment in marriage, it is their fault, not the fault of marriage. If each one of them would do their part and try to cooperate, so to speak, with the other there would be many more successful marriages. The reason you think there are so many unhappy marriages is because they are the ones which seem to come up as subject of conversation and comment. The happy marriages seem to almost go by unnoticed. Not infrequently we overhear someone remark: "Mr. and Mrs. So and So seem to be very happy." This is usually the end of it, but if someone comments on a marriage which hasn't proven to be so successful, hours will be spent discussing the subject "upside down and inside out" and most probably this one marriage will be used as an example the results of all marriages.

If you and the young man are in love with each other and each is willing to do the utmost in making your marriage successful, you will both undoubtedly find great happiness.

Dear Miss Smart: My little girl bites her finger nails and they are beginning to look awful. I spank her and scold her, but still she insists upon biting them. What would you advise me to do?
A MOTHER
I would advise you to stop scolding and spanking your little girl on account of this. She is probably nervous and does not have sufficient self control to altogether stop the habit. Simply dip her fingers in asafetida. It is perfectly harmless but very bitter.

Mrs. Merton Sealls received the members of the Colonial Sewing club at her home on W. Market-st. Thursday. At the conclusion of an enjoyable social afternoon the hostess served a dainty repast. Guests other than members were Mrs. Samuel Huecker, Mrs. J. M. Sealls, Miss Margaret Sealls and Mrs. Curtiss.

Mrs. Luella Clay, N. Baxter-st. is in Dayton, where she attended the funeral of Miss Ella Haines Friday.

Mrs. Samuel Tigner left Wednesday for Chicago where she is visiting relatives and friends. She will return to this city Sunday.

Charles Reader, W. Elm-st., is home from a trip throughout the south western part of the country.

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLIS PHILLIPS

TWO PARIS LETTERS

The next morning Gwenda found to her great satisfaction that she had beaten all the other morning papers with her story. There it stood at her from the crisp pages of the "Daily News," and all the pride of the journalist's was hers.

The evening papers, of course, carried the story, but then she, Gwenda, had put it over first and could well afford to feel proud of herself. She had also secured the only photograph of the late Mrs. Stepanoff and had purposely doctored a snapshot of Fedya while up at his studio, to save him from undue publicity. And with this, too, she felt pleased.

The two girls spent a happy day together, and when they returned to the studio late that night, tired but beaming, they found two long letters from John Neale awaiting them. One for each of them. He was in Paris, and full of wonder at that beautiful city. Also, he was "having the time of his life," he wrote to Gwenda, though, to tell the truth, he was horribly disappointed in the French girls. "Could not see where they held a candle to the girls out in the little old town that he came from. All paint and not much underneath it, either," he wrote, and he'd give a lot to have Gwenda sitting with him at that very minute, in the Cafe Rotonde, watching all Paris float by the tables, and enjoying the gleam of the warm sky that bends above Paris at twilight. "How you would love it all, the types, the music, the lift in the air. One can almost smell the Bois from where I sit, strange to say. And you'd laugh to see the frantic efforts of a little model who is trying to flirt with me from the table across the way. Little models are quite all right, understand, and they certainly add to the picturesqueness of the 'Quarter' but I am firmly convinced that they are not for my western John Neale. Not by a jug full. I seem to yearn for a nut-brown maiden, with a clear, honest twinkle in her eyes, and a tang to her, that makes a fellow's heart beat double time, don't you know? And hear her tell some of the old-home jokes, in the sweetest voice in the world, and laugh, Um, the thought of that laugh just makes me clean sick with homesickness. Maybe you know such a girl, Gwenda? If so, give her this message, from one boy who believes in America First," by God, and in the incomparable loveliness of its women."

"Nice letter, yours?" questioned Fern, suddenly, as she finished the perusal of her own, shorter one. Then catching sight of the flush on her cousin's face, and noting the look of radiant happiness, which Gwenda made no pretence of concealing, she started, ever so slightly, at some thought of her own, and began softly to hum, "The Love Nest."

"Yes, a perfectly splendid letter. So new, so full of wonderful descriptions of Paris," answered Gwenda after a pause. "He is a dear, is John, and so, so sensible, after all, don't you think?"

"Think? I know. That is what I always objected to in him when he was courting me," laughed Fern, remissly.

USE IODINE FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

Pimples and Blemish Vanish.

If you would only have Iodine in the home at all times for a family remedy, they would nip in the bud many serious afflictions and always have an antiseptic and healing remedy for everyday accidents and ailments. Iodine is a woman who speaks for herself, and her experience in raising a large family.

"I took Iodine for instance," she says, "and used to call it St. Anthony's. I was young. The red, irritated swollen skin, the itching and burning, the maddening, and Iodine is the remedy."

Pimples are practically unmanageable in recommending Iodine. They grow in its best form—Lanolinated Iodine Compound—which is soothing, soothing and powerful, yet never irritates or blemishes, and is practically invisible. It is quickly absorbed into the tissues and glands, usually giving prompt relief.

Druggists have this agreeable to the skin and gladly recommend it as it gives unusual satisfaction. Be sure to get Lanolinated Iodine for best results.—Adv.

There is probably no other medicine of its kind that has won the praise that Drecto has during the past few months right here in this section. Men and women who have given themselves up as incurable are coming forward with remarkable signed statements telling what Drecto accomplished for them after almost everything else had failed.

"Every morning now I wish my alarm clock would postpone ringing a couple of hours," said Mr. S. C. Watt, who is employed in the Balter Shop of the Solar Refining Co., and lives on R. R. No. 9, Lima, Ohio.

"I enjoy my sleep now whereas before I'd roll and toss all night long and be worn out next morning. I was afraid I was about to be laid on my shelf for my work seemed to drag on me. After meals I'd have a full feeling, often with nausea and gastritis. I'd frequently get very dizzy and had aching pains in my back, directly over my kidneys. I was bilious all the time and had severe headaches."

"Since taking a treatment of Drecto I'm like another person for all these troubles are gone; haven't had one dizzy spell, pains in my back all gone and I eat hearty and never fear the after effects as before. Drecto is grand medicine and I strongly recommend it."

All good druggists now sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, Corner Main and High Sts.—Adv.

THE GOLD GIRL

By JAMES H. HENDRYX

Hurrying to the corral, Patty saddled her horse, and a few moments later swung into the trail that led down the creek. She glanced at her watch: it was 1 o'clock. The moon floated high in the heavens and the valley was almost as light as day.

After what seemed an interminable wait, Pierce himself appeared at the door in answer to her persistent pounding. Patty thought he eyed her curiously as he stood aside and motioned her into the kitchen. Very deliberately he lighted the lamp and listened in silence until she had finished.

Then, coolly, he eyed her from top to toe. "Pears to me I've saw you before," he announced. "Over on the trail a while back. An' you was a-ridin' with—Monk Bethune."

"Well!" asked the girl, angered by the man's tone. "Well," mocked Pierce, "so to-night's the night yer fingerin' on pullin' the rale, is it?"

"I'm fingerin' on pullin' the rale! What do you mean?" "I mean you an' Bethune, an' yer gang, 'You be'n up a-spoitin' the lay, so's to tip 'em off, an' now you come down here and tell me the Old Man's worst so's I'll take out to town for the doc—' an' one less posse-man in the hills. Yer a pretty slick article, Miss, but it ain't a-goin' to work."

Patty listened, speechless with rage. When the man finished she found her tongue. "You—you accuse me of being—a horse-thief?" she choked.

"Yup," answered the man. "That's it—an' no go far off, neither. Don't you s'pose I know that if the Old Man was worst one of his boys could be'n 'foggin' it for town himself. I'd ort to take an' lock you up in the foot cellar an' turn you over to Vil Holland, but I guess if we get all the he comes out of the gang we kin leave you loose. Tain't likely you could run off no horses single-handed."

A woman whose appearance showed an evident hasty toilet had stepped from an inner room, and stood listening to the man. Patty was about to repeat to her when, from the outside came a thunder of hoofs and suddenly a man burst into the room. Patty recognized him as Bill of the Samuelson ranch. "Come on, Jack, quick! Get your gun, while I slam the kak on yer carcase. The rale's on, they've cut out a bunch of them three an' four-year-olds offon the east slope an' they're a-loggin' 'em off."

A moment later both men were in the saddle, and the sound of pounding hoofs grew far away.

In tears, Patty turned to the woman. "Oh, why couldn't he have believed me?" she cried. "He thinks I'm one of that detestable gang of thieves! But you—surely you don't think I'm a horse-thief?" In broken sentences she related the facts to the woman, and finished by begging her to go up to the Samuelson ranch. "I'll ride on to town for the doctor myself!" she exclaimed. "And surely you can do that much for your neighbor."

"Do that much for 'em!" the woman exclaimed. "I reckon they ain't nothin' I wouldn't do for them. Mebbe Jack's right, an' mebbe he's wrong. I've saw him be both, fore now. You hit the trail for town, an' I'll ride up the creek. Thompson's is great friends with Samuelsons, he called the woman as Patty mounted. "Better change horses there! Or mebbe Thompson'll go on to town fer you."

As she approached the mouth of a wide coulee that gave into the valley from the eastward, Patty heard the rumble of hundreds of pounding hoofs that each second grew louder and more ominous, until as she reached the mouth of the coulee a rider swept into the valley, his horse straining every muscle to keep ahead of the herd that thundered in his wake.

Apparently the horseman did not notice her, and the next moment Patty was engulfed in the herd. The girl lived one wild moment of terror, in front behind upon each side were madly plunging horses, eyes staring, mouths agape, exposing long white teeth that flashed wickedly in the moonlight, manes tossing wildly, and the air whistling thru wide-flaring nostrils. On and on they swept down the valley. The roar of hoofs rose to a mighty crescendo of thunder, above which, now and then, the terrified girl caught fierce yells from the flank of the herd. So close were the terrorized horses running that it was impossible for the girl to see the ground before her. Sweating, plunging bodies surged against her legs threatening each moment to scrape her feet from the stirrups. Gripping the horn with both hands she rode in a sort of daze.

Glancing over her shoulder she caught an occasional flash of white as the men on the flanks waved sheets above their heads, whose flapping, fluttering folds urged the maddened horses into a perfect frenzy of action.

Time and distance ceased to be. Patty was carried helplessly on, a part of that frenzied flood of flesh, muscles rigid, brain tense—waiting for the inevitable moment—the horrible moment that was to mark the climax of this ride of horrors.

Suddenly she opened her eyes. She sensed a change in the rumble of hoofs. Horses surged together and the race slackened from a wild rush to a wilder thrashing of uncertainty. In the forefront a thin red spur of flame caped forth and above the pounding hoofs rang the report of a shot.

Other spurts of flame pierced the night, and shots rang viciously from all sides. The horses were miffing, churning, about in a huge madstream in which Patty found herself being slowly forced to the outside of the unencumbered, free horses crowded to the center away from the terrifying stabs of flame and the crack of guns. She could see a mounted form before her. Evidently it was the man who had ridden in the forefront of the herd. The rider was very close, now, his horse keeping pace with his own, which had nearly reached the outer rim of the churning mass of animals. The brim of his hat shadowed his face but Patty could see that the gaunt, old hand held a six-gun. A shift of position brought the moonlight full upon the man's front—upon a scarf of robin's egg blue caught together at the throat with the polished tip of a buffalo horn. No other horsemen were in sight, but an occasional sharp report sounded from the opposite side of the herd. "Vil!" she screamed. "Vil Holland!" The form stiffened in the saddle and the girl caught the flash of his eyes beneath the hat brim. The next instant the gun had given place to a heavy quirt in his hand, his tall, rangy horse plunged straight toward her, the wild horses crowding frenziedly to escape the blows as the rider lashed furiously to the right and to the left as he forced his mount to her side.

"Good God! Girl, what are you doing here? I thought you were one of them—and I nearly—" The man leaned suddenly forward and grasped the bit-chain of her bridle. As if knowing exactly what was expected of them, side by side the two horses fought their way free of the herd, the big buckskin with ears laid back, snapping viciously at the crowding horses. A six-gun roared twice. Patty felt a sudden brush of air against her cheek and the next instant the two horses plunged down the steep side of a narrow ravine. In the bottom the man released her bridle. "You stay here!" he commanded gruffly.

"But the Samuelsons! Mr. Samuelson is—" The words were drowned in a shower of gravel as the rangy buckskin scrambled up the bank and disappeared over the top. With a mighty rumble of hoofs and a scattering volley of shots, the horse hurt swept northward. Hurriedly she glanced about her. What was that stretching to the southward a long ribbon of white in the moonlight? "The trail!" she cried. "The trail to town—and to Thompson's!"

She reached Thompson's just as the ranchman and his two hands were starting for the barn.

"Well, dog my cats, if it ain't Miss Sinclair!" exclaimed the man, and stood silent for a second as if trying to remember something. He rushed toward her excitedly. "You want that horse?" he cried, and without waiting for an answer, turned to the astonished ranch hands: "You, Mike, throw the shell out! Lightnin' an' git him out here, an' don't lose no time about it, neither! 'Fete, git that rifle an' lay along the trail! An', if anyone comes a-

KANSAS HAS PARALLEL

OF CLARA HAMON CASE

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan.—Kansas has had a murder triangle that runs a startling parallel with the Clara Smith Hamon case.

Mrs. Luella Moncrave received a four-year sentence for murdering her husband, Henry E. Moncrave, rich Osage Indian, at the same time that Clara Hamon was acquitted. She was pardoned, however, after serving two weeks of the sentence.

The parallel included statements by both victims that they had shot themselves; confessions from both women that they had done the shooting and protestations by both women that the shootings had occurred when the men attacked them while drunk.

gir concurred the somewhat muddy explanation. "If the rale's come off, why wasn't I in on it—an' me keepin' Lightnin' up and ready fer it's goin' on three months? They's a thing or two I do know, though. For one, you've rode fer enough." He called to Pete, who rifle in hand, was making for the trail. "Hey, Pete, come back here with that gun, an' quick as Mike gits the hull cinched into Lightnin', you fork him an' hightail fer town an' fetch Doc Mallory out to Samuelson's. He turned to Patty: "You come along in an' rest up 'til Miz T. gits breakfast ready. Then when you've et, you kin begin at the beginnin' an' tell what's be'n a-goin' on in the hills."

A couple of hours later when Patty concurred her detailed narrative, Thompson leaned back in his chair. "I got a crow to pick with Vil Holland, all right, fer not lettin' me in on that there rale."

"Maybe he didn't have time," suggested the girl, and suppressed a desire to smile at the readiness with which she sprang to the defense of her "guardian devil of the hills."

"Run off Samuelson's horses—battlin'—you was in it!" he repeated in bewilderment. "Who run 'em off? Where's Vil Holland?"

"Vil Holland's with them—with the Samuelson cowboys—and that horrid Pierce, and that's why I had to ride for the doctor—because the cowboys were with Vil Holland and Pierce thought I was one of the horse-thieves."

"If you know what you're talkin' about it's more'n what I do," sighed Thompson, resignedly as the

U.S. MAY DECIDE REPARATIONS

Conclusion Drawn From Reply to Germany's Appeal

TOLD TO SUBMIT NEW PLANS

Answers Berlin's Request That America Act as Mediator

WASHINGTON — (By United Press) — The United States will have a deciding vote in determining to what extent Germany shall pay for the war.

This was the conclusion in Washington today, following publication of the German note appealing for President Harding to mediate the reparations question and Secretary Hughes' reply rejecting the appeal, but urging immediate reopening of negotiations between the allies and Germany for settlement of the problem.

The allies and Germany, it is thought, will be forced to accept the views and principles of the United States in the settlement.

NEXT STEP BY U. S.

As the next important step by the United States in the reparations situation, it is believed that Hughes will instruct either Ambassador Wallace, at Paris, or Rowland W. Boyden, the unofficial American representative on the reparations committee, to take part in the coming deliberations of the allied supreme council on Germany's failure to meet the reparations demand. Hughes is known to believe that at least unofficial American representation in the settlement of these questions is desirable in order that the United States may be kept informed.

Germany also is expected soon to submit new reparations proposals to the allies and these proposals probably will be sent to the United States for their approval.

AMERICAN COMMAND

BERLIN — (By United Press) — The German foreign office buzzed with activity today as high officials considered the next step in their reparations campaign. The American reply to Germany's reparations note, was regarded as particularly an American command to submit indemnity proposals which France and Great Britain can consider. The Fehrenbach cabinet was disposed to take another chance with the allies.

While Secretary Hughes stated that the United States cannot act as reparations umpire, the note was interpreted as friendly and it was believed also to hold a promise of possible future mediation if the allies would agree to it.

THREE CONSIDERATIONS

Germany's proposal to a country with which she is still at war, was prompted by three considerations. They were:

"A United States senator", through an intermediary, assured the foreign office that a German appeal would have a chance.

Loring Dressel, American representative here, told Foreign Minister Von Simons last week, that an appeal could not be considered as "wholly hopeless."

The United States government notified Dressel that none of several reported mediation requests had reached Washington. The Germans assumed thereupon that America was awaiting some such note, open-mindedly.

On the highest authority it can be stated German officials are certain no government will be created here to present demands of the allies.

The identity of the "United States senator" who suggested America would be open to an appeal to mediation was not made public. Speculation among German officials, brought in the name of Senator McCormick. He visited Europe last winter.

FRANCE DISAPPOINTED

PARIS — (By Associated Press) — French official circles expressed disappointment today that the American reply to Germany's request for mediation was not a categorical refusal as had been expected here. The regrets were mitigated, however, by satisfaction that the United States was displaying an active interest in the reparations question.

The American answer is interpreted here as an invitation to Germany to resume negotiations with the allies. It is thought that the communication indicates that the United States will not continue the conversation with Germany on this subject except in accord with the allies. Secretary of State Hughes is understood in authoritative quarters here to have informed Ambassador Jusseps to this effect.

CONSIDER LIMA FOR PLACE IN A NEW BALL LEAGUE

Lima is being considered for a place in a new Class A league being formed by Ralph Lattimore, former manager of the Akron International League club.

This information was received here early Friday morning in a dispatch received from Lattimore.

The league will not be formed this year, but it is proposed to get underway in 1922.

Plans for the league were commenced by Lattimore soon after the decision of Judge Landis which transferred the Akron franchise to Newark.

The proposed league will include Akron, Youngstown, Canton, Dayton, Springfield, Wheeling, W. Va., Erie, Pa., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Lima.

Sharon, Pa., and Marion, Ohio, are asking to be admitted into the new league.

Akron if plans go thru, will have had its sixth berth in a baseball league.

It was represented in the old O. and P. League, Central League, Buckeye League, Ohio State League and the International League.

BIG BANQUET IN HONOR OF TEAM

NEW YORK.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker here tonight at a dinner to be given in honor of the American Davis cup team.

Dwight F. Davis, donor of the cup that bears his name, and officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association will attend.

All members of the Davis cup team with the exception of the California star, William Johnston, will be present.

SHORT SHAVINGS

They were an extraordinarily merry party, and in the wee small hours they had zigzagged their way to what they took to be MacGregor's house.

After they had hammered lustily on the door for some minutes a bedroom window opened and a night-capped head appeared.

"Scuse us," quoth the spokesman, "but you're Missus MacGregor, aren't you? If you are, please come down and pick out McGregor, 'cause we want to go home, an' we dunno which of us is him!"

There is an official in Washington who likes nothing better than a fling at the medical profession. He was afforded an opportunity not long ago at a public dinner to chaff the medicos, and he did so in this wise:

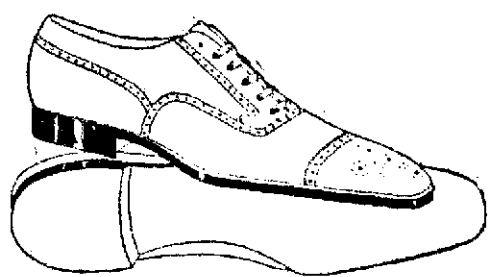

"Physicians may be divided into two classes—the radicals, who kill you, and the conservatives, who let you die."
